Good afternoon and thank you for joining us today. Before we get started, please take a moment to ensure set your devices to mute. We have a topic today that should be very applicable to young people, and we want you to take advantage of our speaker.

As an Act of Reconciliation, we acknowledge that we are located within Treaty 4, signed September 1874 at Fort Qu'Appelle, the traditional territory of the Anishinaabe, Cree, Assiniboine, and homeland of the Metis Peoples. This act of acknowledgement demonstrates our recognition of and respect for Indigenous Peoples both in the past and the present.

It is my/our pleasure to welcome out speaker Madison Cameron.

Madison is a passionate advocate, dynamic speaker, and dedicated community leader whose work focuses on fostering connection, well-being and resilience within school communities and youth. Drawing from powerful personal experiences and a deep commitment to supporting educators and students alike, Madison delivers grounded, compassionate, and actionable strategies designed to help us navigate the unique challenges facing today's young people. Whether addressing mental health awareness, proactive support, or building safe and connected environments, Madison's message should resonate deeply with anyone dedicated to guiding the next generation.

Today's presentation is possible in part to the leadership and generous support of our sponsors and partners:

- The Community Threat Assessment and Support Protocol (CTASP) committee members for their vital work behind the scenes. The idea to invite Madison to our communities began with this group. Their leadership in fostering multidisciplinary collaboration and proactive support networks for our schools and communities is deeply appreciated.
- The Elias Giannoulis Memorial Hockey Tournament for Mental Health Committee: We extend our heartfelt gratitude to the committee for sponsoring Madison's presentations. Their ongoing commitment to honoring Elias' legacy by investing in community support, youth mental health, and educational opportunities continues to make a meaningful and lasting impact across our region.

We ask that you be great hosts and give your attention to our Speaker. We will run around that one hour mark and we will try for some questions at the end of the presentation.

Please join me in giving a warm virtual welcome to Madison Cameron!
